

CALIFORNIA'S HEALTH PLANS WORKING FOR YOU

Health insurance plans provide Californians with access to quality care, choices in provider networks, comprehensive benefits, and the sense of financial security and peace of mind that they're covered for a wide variety of medical services, whether they're facing a sudden medical emergency, managing a chronic illness or maintaining a healthy lifestyle.

We Bring: Coverage and Satisfaction

While the costs of medical care remain a concern, most Californians are satisfied with the health care system, the health care they receive and their health insurance plan.

More Californians Are Insured

Today, about 93 percent of Californians have health coverage. California has seen significant improvement in the number of insured residents since 2014, when the Affordable Care Act (ACA) expanded coverage. In 2013, only 82.5 percent of Californians were insured. Much of the coverage gain is due to increased enrollment in Medi-Cal, while Covered California continues to see robust enrollment.

We Bring: Financial Security and Peace of Mind

Having health insurance brings consumers peace of mind that they'll have access to health care services and providers when they need it. People also value the sense of financial security they get from knowing – in the event they themselves or a family member becomes seriously ill – they will be able to receive the medical care necessary without facing a devastating, out-of-pocket financial burden. Health insurance is especially critical for people with chronic conditions who can depend on the medical services health plans consistently and reliably provide to meet their needs.

CA Voter Opinions: *

Agree that health insurance offers a sense of financial security

Say health insurance is especially critical for people with chronic conditions
