Bio

Kendall Lockhart is a leader in consumer health experience and product development. The former worldwide head of product for the Walt Disney Company's interactive media division, he is the Founder of MeU Care, the multichannel communication and collaboration platform that enables everyone to HIPAA securely help keep members healthy.

MeU Care offers the next generation of telehealth/virtual care by enabling actionable real-time intelligence and the virtual communication channels to immediately affect behavior and outcomes across the care and social continuum. MeU Care is used by large organizations including Centene, SCAN Health, Gaudenzia and Pacific Clinics for patient, caregiver and provider relationships, chronic care management, behavioral health, substance use disorder and medication management.

Previously Kendall was the Vice President and Worldwide Head of Product Development for The Walt Disney Company's interactive media division. He built a global studio with programmers, producers, and artists that created award-winning interactive digital media products.

Kendall then went to consumer healthcare where he was the CEO & Chief Product Officer of OneBody, Inc. He created the most widely used web portal for consumer integrative health, OneBody.com. The company also built an online/on-the-ground wellness network of over 50,000 clinicians that was licensed to Blue Shield/Cross plans.

Kendall has also created innovative global consumer health & lifestyle initiatives for Humana, WellPoint, Four Seasons Hotels & Resorts, Dole Foods, Sprint, and the California Health & Longevity Institute.

He holds an A.B. in English from Princeton University.
